Money trials are not the hardest, and somehow or other, they are always overcome.

Amelia E. Barr
U.S. author

Money is the last enemy that shall never be subdued.
While there is flesh there is money—or the want of money, but money is always on the brain so long as there is a brain in reasonable order.

Samuel Butler

s money money or isn't money money. Everybody who earns it and spends it every day in order to live knows that money is money, anybody who votes it to be gathered in as taxes knows money is not money. That is what makes everybody go crazy. . . .

When you earn money and spend money every day anybody can know the difference between a million and three. But when you vote money away there really is not any difference between a million and three.

Gertrude Stein

is money that begets money.

English proverb

Money won is twice as sweet as money earned.

“Lucky” Eddie Felson

Money will never make you happy and happy will never make you money. That may be a wise crack, but I doubt it.

Mr. Hammer

from The Cocoanuts, as the Florida hotel owner (Groucho Marx) explains value of money to bellboys he is trying not to pay

Money is like sex. Some people believe that the more sexual experiences they have, with as many different people as possible, the more fulfilled they will be. But even great quantities of money and sex may not satisfy the craving. The problem lies not in having too much or too little, but in taking money literally, as a fetish rather than as a medium. If wealth is found by rejecting the experience of poverty, then it will never be complete. The soul is nurtured by want as much as by plenty.

Thomas Moore

Money earned with pains should be spent on pleasure.

Chinese proverb

Give money me, take friendship whoso list,
For friends are gone come once adversity.
When money yet remaineth safe in chest,
That quickly can thee bring from misery.
Fair face show friends when riches do abound.

Barnabe Googe
British poet

Money is human happiness in the abstract: he, then, who is no longer capable of enjoying human happiness in the concrete devotes his heart entirely to money.

Arthur Schopenhauer

Money indeed may be considered as the most universal and expressive of all languages. For gold and silver coins are no more money when not in the actual process of being voluntarily used in purchase, than words not so in use are language.

Samuel Butler

Hollywood money isn't money.
It's congealed snow:
melts in your hand, and there you are.

Dorothy Parker

Children need money. As they grow older they need more money. They need money for essentially the same reasons that adults need money. They need to buy stuff....They need it regardless of whether they get good grades, violate a family rule, or offend a parent.

Medeiros, Porter, & Welch

Money made through dishonest practices will not last long.

Chinese proverb

Money is the worst currency that ever grew among mankind. This sacks cities, this drives men from their homes, this teaches and corrupts the worthiest minds to turn base deeds.

Sophocles

Money's a horrid thing to follow, but a charming thing to meet.

Henry James

Money gives me pleasure all the time.

Hilaire Belloc
French-born British poet

I love money,
but will money ever love me in return?

Mason Cooley
U.S. aphorist

Money is a poor man's credit card.

Marshall McLuhan

oney couldn't buy friends, but you got a better class of enemy.

Spike Milligan

oney is like muck,
not good except it be spread.

Francis Bacon

Money is a better tonic than Geritol.

Mason Cooley

Money itself isn't lost or made, it's simply transferred from one perception to another. This painting here. I bought it 10 years ago for 60 thousand dollars. I could sell it today for 600. The illusion has become real and the more real it becomes, the more desperately they want it.

Gordon Gekko
Wall Street

Public money is like holy water;
everyone helps himself to it.

Italian proverb

The money complex is the demonic, and the demonic is God's ape; the money complex is therefore the heir to and substitute for the religious complex, an attempt to find God in things.

Norman O. Brown
U.S. philosopher

Money clarifies one's speech greatly, while no one listens to the poor.

Chinese proverb

Money is better than poverty, if only for financial reasons.

Woody Allen

oney is the source of the greatest vice, and that nation which is most rich, is most wicked.

Frances Burney
British author

learly money has something to do with life....

Philip Larkin
British poet

With money you're a dragon;
without it you're a worm.

Chinese proverb

ir, money, money, the most charming of all things; money, which will say more in one moment than the most elegant lover can in years. Perhaps you will say a man is not young; I answer he is rich. He is not genteel, handsome, witty, brave, good-humoured, but he is rich, rich, rich, rich, rich—that one word contradicts everything you can say against him.

Henry Fielding
British novelist

Money is the sinews of love,
as of war.

George Farquhar
Irish dramatist

Money is like a sixth sense without which you cannot make a complete use of the other five.

W. Somerset Maugham

Money: power at its most liquid.

Mason Cooley

Money cannot purchase
what the heart desires.

Chinese proverb

I'm not money hungry. . . . People who are rich want to be richer, but what's the difference? You can't take it with you. The toys get different, that's all. The rich guys buy a football team, the poor guys buy a football. It's all relative.

Martina Navratilova

Money votes socialist or monarchist, finds a profit in pornography or translations from the Bible, commissions Rembrandt and underwrites the technology of Auschwitz. It acquires its meaning from the uses to which it is put.

Lewis H. Lapham
U.S. essayist

Money doesn't mind if we say it's evil;
it goes from strength to strength.
It's a fiction, an addiction, and a tacit conspiracy.

Martin Amis
British author

With money, you can make the devil push a millstone.

Chinese proverb

Money comes to life as it is spent.

Mason Cooley

Money speaks, but it speaks with a male voice.

Andrea Dworkin
U.S. feminist

Money is that dear thing which,
if you're not careful, you can squander your whole life thinking of

Mary Jo Salter
U.S. poet

Money is power, and in that government which pays all the public officers of the states will all political power be substantially concentrated.

Andrew Jackson

Money, which represents the prose of life, and which is hardly spoken of in parlors without an apology, is, in its effects and laws, as beautiful as roses.

Ralph Waldo Emerson

Money talks” because money is a metaphor, a transfer, and a bridge. Like words and language, money is a storehouse of communally achieved work, skill, and experience. Money, however, is also a specialist technology like writing; and as writing intensifies the visual aspect of speech and order, and as the clock visually separates time from space, so money separates work from the other social functions. Even today money is a language for translating the work of the farmer into the work of the barber, doctor, engineer, or plumber. As a vast social metaphor, bridge, or translator, money—like writing—speeds up exchange and tightens the bonds of interdependence in any community. It gives great spatial expansion and control to political organizations, just as writing does, or the calendar.

Marshall McLuhan

t's not money that brings happiness, it's lots of money.

Russian saying

Money can move the gods.

Chinese proverb

Money and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and . . . the unhappiest of all mortals are those who have more of either than they know how to use.

Samuel Johnson
